

Take the disaster out of disaster recovery

VMware vCenter Site Recovery Manager is a pioneering disaster recovery management and automation solution for VMware Infrastructure. Site Recovery Manager accelerates recovery by automating the recovery process and simplifies management of disaster recovery plans by making disaster recovery an integrated element of managing your virtual datacenter operating system. The solution ensures reliable recovery by eliminating complex manual recovery steps and enabling non-disruptive testing of recovery plans.

The Solution

ITopia Solutions in partnership with leading server and storage hardware vendors can offer you a complete remote fail-over environment utilizing VMware vCenter Site Recovery Manager. It will be fully managed and supported by ITopia Solutions 24/7 NOC (Network Operations Centre). Your servers will replicate to our state of the art, fully redundant data centre's based in the UK.

Site Recovery Manager simplifies and automates key elements of setting up, testing and executing recovery plans. The key benefits of VMware Site Recovery Manager are:

- Disaster Recovery Management
- Non-Disruptive Testing
- Automated Failover

It's all in the planning

ITopia Solutions can assist with planning and design of your SRM environment and take away the headaches normally associated with a second site. With the advent of VMware SRM, the luxury of advanced DR capabilities can now be extended to your environment.

Due to the fact that we host multiple customers' disaster recovery sites, we are able to offer this service at a discounted rate to owning your own disaster recovery site. Your array can be replicated to a selection of our arrays, if we do not have a compatible array we can procure and install one for you as part of the service. Alternatively, our sister company ITopia Consulting can provide the expertise needed to deploy VMware first on your production site.

One of the most compelling value-add propositions is that your capital expenditure can be kept to an absolute minimum, allowing us to provide you a managed service through your operational expenditure budget. Please contact ITopia Solutions today to discuss your environment and future plans with a qualified consultant.

A FRESH APPROACH